

New Optional Session: How to Win a CRC (or Not)

A special breakfast event will be held for a limited number of registrants on the morning on Friday 17 May. As CEO of the ARC, Professor Aidan Byrne sees more research proposals than just about anyone else. Having just completed his first funding round as a member of the CRC Committee, Aidan is in a unique position to give us insights into How to Win a CRC (or not).

Aidan will be joined by Professor Robert van Barneveld who has led four separate CRC bids in two distinctly different sectors. As a leading nutritionist and company director in the livestock industry, Rob has led two successful bids for the Australian pork industry. In the latest funding round he led the bid for the establishment of a $104 million Cooperative Research Centre for Living with Autism Spectrum Disorders over 8 years with 56 participants and $31 million contributed by the Federal government. Rob also led a previous unsuccessful bid for an Autism CRC.

Aidan and Robert will give their unique insights into what makes a winning CRC bid. Numbers are limited for this breakfast, free for registrants. To attend, you must register through the Collaborate | Innovate | 2013 website.

If you have already completed a conference registration you will be able to add this workshop by logging in using your email address and unique password.

Light breakfast and refreshments will be provided.

For more information on the CRCA Collaborate Innovate 2013 Conference, please visit our conference website.

Should you be interested in the vast business opportunities associated with sponsoring this event, please contact Naz Barootian on NBarootian@eventcorp.com.au for a copy of the prospectus, or click here.

We hope to see you in May!

CRCA Conference Office

P: +61 7 3334 4400

F: +61 7 3334 4499

E: crca@eventcorp.com.au