“Family education is not a luxury. It ensures that each generation is appropriately prepared to deal with the responsibilities associated with being wealthy and to make those decisions that need to be made when the time comes.
Education in the heat of the moment is not only unlikely to be successful; it can expose the family to irreparable damage.”

Jean Brunel - Editor’s Letter

9 Stephen Morison, David Lincoln, Benjamin Kinnard, and Zhi Ying Ng
The Changing Nature of Global Wealth Creation: Shifts and Trends in the Ultra High Net Worth (UHNW) Community

15 Andrew Rudd and Laurence B. Siegel
Using an Economic Balance Sheet for Financial Planning

25 Javier Estrada
Stocks, Bonds, Risk, and the Holding Period:
An International Perspective

45 Daniel Alan Seiver and Samuel Joseph Frame
Using Value Line’s Median Appreciation
Potential to Forecast Long-Horizon
Market Returns

55 David M. Blanchett, Michael Finke, and Wade D. Pfau
Low Bond Yields and Safe Portfolio
Withdrawal Rates

63 Gaurav Anand, Iliya Kutsarov,
Thomas Maier, and Marcus Storr
The Influence of Macroeconomic and Behavioral Factors on Tactical Strategy
Allocation (TSA) for Funds of Hedge Funds

77 Tom Arnold and John H. Earl, Jr.
Transparency, Level 3 Assets, and the Investor

80 Daniele Lamponi
Are Small CTA Funds Better than Large Ones?
An Empirical Analysis

88 Joachim Klement, James Greenrod, and Jay O’Neil
Optimal Domestic Equity Allocations for Australian Investors and the Role of Franking Credits

99 Stephen Horan, George Szundi, C. Edward Van Deman, and Kevin P. Whalen
Technology and the Family Office