What is a descriptive essay

A descriptive essay is essentially one of the most interesting styles of essays that you may ever get to write. Mastering the proper way to do it is really an art. Descriptive essay is the kind of essay that requires the writer to engage with the reader on a very sensory level. The aim is to really get into the description of whatever the theme or topic may be and make your reader envision and feel that what your describing is very real. It is a very experiential writing style where writers have their own individual styles and ways to make the reader tap into their imaginations and paint a picture in their heads with merely words. Fast writing a descriptive essay may take a lot of time but you can write them quickly using certain techniques and ways that speed up the process of writing for you.

Deciding on a topic and thesis statement

First and foremost is deciding on a topic and thesis statement. The reason why this is so stressed upon is that being particular about what you want to write on allows you to have a clear focus that will make it easier for you to write. It is advised that you always decide on a topic that is of interest to you as you can tap into the most intricate of details regarding it; if you don't, then you will have a hard time putting our mind to it. The thesis statement is the next task, where you develop a sentence or two that give an overall sense and understanding of what the reader is about to dive into. When you have a focused and directed approach, you don't waste time in thinking too much, the writing naturally comes to you.

Planning out your essay

The second most important thing is planning out your entire essay and creating notes and points of all the things that you wish to describe about relating to the topic. This helps you organize your thought process and your essay structure which is a very important feature of essay writing.

Engaging with the senses

The best part, and beauty of a descriptive essay is how the writer gets into the tiniest of details and describes them in a realistic manner. The way to do so is by keeping in mind to engage with the reader's senses; write about the way a certain texture is, write about the way the wind feels on the face, wrote about the way the light feels warm and smell of freshly brewed tea perhaps. Anything and everything is up for an in depth description. The sole purpose is to make the reader feel how you feel; if you are able to re envision those things all over again just by reading your own words, your task is completed!

Finalizing your Essay

Do not forget to edit your essay, proofread and re-check it after you are done, proper grammar and sentence framing always plays a huge role in fast writing a good essay!
