

Subject line: A Message to Our Valued Partners

COVID-19 Response

Dear Unicity Family,

For over 30 years, Unicity has striven to empower people with the information, products, and services that enable them to take responsibility for their health and quality of life. This enduring philosophy guides us as we face the difficult challenge of responding to the coronavirus (COVID-19), which the World Health Organization (WHO) declared a pandemic last week.

At Unicity, our priority is the health and safety of our customers, distributors, and communities. We have taken, and will continue to take, the necessary precautions: checking temperatures of everyone at all office and warehouse shipping locations; increasing sanitization at offices, production facilities, and shipping facilities; and closing offices when required by local regulation. Many reward trips, events, and other scheduled trips have been postponed, and some Unicity corporate employees have been asked to work from home in order to practice social distancing. These changes have required adjustments, and we appreciate your patience as we address this changing environment.

Although our products have had, and continue to have, a profound effect on the health of individuals worldwide, they are not approved to diagnose, prevent, or treat diseases. We need to be mindful not to associate specific diseases, including COVID-19, with our products in our marketing materials. Now, more than ever, people are concerned about their health and are looking for ways to make choices that will help them achieve and maintain good health. As always, we encourage sharing products with Unicity-approved messaging and materials. Unicity is a strong company and well prepared financially to weather market fluctuations. With your continued support and compliance with business rules and regulations, we will continue to thrive.

This is a business that involves people connecting with one another. Based on recommendations from the WHO, we suggest you consider the following ways to connect cautiously:

- Limit non-essential travel.
- Limit large gatherings and consider whether virtual events will work for your meetings.
- If meeting physically, practice greetings with colleagues, friends, and prospects that do not involve touching, and select uncrowded locations in which to meet.

And of course, follow health recommendations including proper hand washing, getting adequate sleep, and eating a healthy diet.

We are closely monitoring WHO and regional public health recommendations and guidelines. As information is released, we will update you on anything that may impact your Unicity experience. In the meantime, we would like to express our gratitude to you for being part of our community. We're proud to be your partner in good health across the globe, and we're confident that we will successfully navigate this challenging situation together.

Sincerely,
Unicity International